The sense under your feet is as important as the visual look. Although the people were always looking for the new aesthetic solutions in the interiors, the basic demand elements - human comfort and healthy environment - have been unchanged. Natural wood has been traditionally considered as a solution for harmonious space and luxury flooring with its essential characteristics of warmth, longevity and solidity. Our unique parquet contains characters of wood with all its abundances and diversities in colour, shades and pattern, as result of many years of our experience.

Life and energy in your home for every step you make

This is the world's most Narrowest House, which was built in an alley between two tower blocks. The house was designed to be more of studio, for artists to stay, rather than a cosy home. It has 15 square metres of floorspace, and has an interior that varies in width from 72 cm to 122 cm.

Inside, there's an entrance hall, a kitchen, a bedroom, a dining room, and wet room with toilet and a shower. The house was designed by Jakub Szczęsny for an Israeli writer Etgar Keret, who created the project and will live in the house on and off for a year.
